Exhibitors must give their attention to their articles or animals during the Fair, and at the close of the Exhibition attend to their removal.

VII. Except where ladies are invited to act as Judges, the Awarding Committees will in every instance be composed of members of the Society, and will be selected solely with reference to the highest order of fitness, and in no case will a person be permitted to act as judge in any department in which he is a competitor.

They will make proper allowances for the age, feeding and condition of the animals, especially in the breeding classes, and will not give encouragement to over-fed animals.

IX. No person will be allowed in any wise to interfere with the judges in their adjudications. The several Superintending Committees will give particular attention to all articles in their departments, and see that they are arranged in the best order possible, to lessen and facilitate the labors of the judges in their examinations.

PRESIDENTIAL PROSPECTS.—The following is from a correspondent of the New York Times, which, we believe, is a correct representation of public sentiment throughout the North:

"I have been traveling and mingling for a long time with various degrees of people. I have a theory that the masses of men are pretty well represented by those whom we meet at the fashionable and second class hotels, in the bar rooms and vehicles of travel. And I feel sure that the cause of good government, in the person of Mr. Lincoln, is gaining strength, and that, notwithstanding the tremendous responsibilities and uncertainties which rest upon and envelop the administration, so far as conclusive and brilliant results to be immediately expected in the field are concerned, that there is a fixed determination, which nothing can shake, on the part of the masses to re-elect the President by a decided vote, as the only cure for the existing disorders in our midst. As to the rebellion, good people seem to regard that as substantially crushed."

SPEAKING THE TRUTH.—Children and fools speak the truth, as the following incident helps to show: At a tea-party the conversation turned upon intemperance. The lady of the house expressed her abhorrence of the habit, and was very proud to say that her husband had never been under the influence of liquor. The lady's son, a little four-year old, sitting at the foot of the table, upon hearing this assertion, and wishing to refresh his mother's memory, called out, "Oh! ma! I don't you remember when pa came home drunk, and you wouldn't sleep with him?" The effect may be imagined. Thirteen-inch shells were tame in comparison.

THE INDIAN SUMMER.

BY MARTHA H. HOARD.

Out in the fields, the sun to-day Shines slanting down with welcome heat, And wandering on in dreamy way,
The bare crisp earth warms to my feet.

The dead brown grass seems browner still With amber sunshine o'er it thrown, Save at the base of some steep hill Where careless waters wander on.

And gathered fields of golden grain, With stubble drying day and night,
Would seem best draped with darkening rain, Than kissed by Autumn's vain sunlight.

For all in vain its smiles are blithe, O'er meadow bare and harvest fields;
It cannot rouse the soil to life,
And no more grain the stubble yields.

I fold my hands and wander on O'er dreary fields, through narrow lanes, And wonder how such days can come While bloom and beauty die with pains.

Though more congenial to decay Would clouds and low'ring tempests be Than this calm light, which day by day The sun sheds down upon the lea.

Or this soft air, which wraps me round With dreams as hazy as itself, Or takes me back o'er long passed ground, Where walked my earlier, happier self.

But 'tis a pretty thought to think That, as their tasks are all well done, Though standing on life's furthest brink, Still smiles for them this well-loved sun.

And thinking this I reach the woods, Bright colored as with tropic dyes,
And waking from my dreamy mood,
The flashing radiance duns my eyes.

I know the grandeur of the days That fill the Indian Summer time Should call from me more cheerful lays,
That rich were thoughts she'd now be mine.

Yea, thoughts as wondrous as the tints That glow along the woods to-day, Which, dying now, give glorious hints Of beauty that shall live for aye.

But standing 'neath a tree whose leaves Are crimsoned as by sunset's fire, The same sad song my fancy weaves,
The same sad strain floats from my lyre.

For with such dread my heart goes out To other fields as red as this,
With scarlet leaves all o'er my path,
And die all recast thoughts of bliss.

The death of heroes tears my song—O'er them alone my tears may fall;
For those the spring will come ere long, But these no earthly spring recall.

"TELL HIM TO QUIT!"—We heard of a young married couple who recently attended an exhibition of "Dissolving Views." The bride being pretty, attracted the attention of a stylish looking city gent who happened to occupy the same seat with the twain. During the exhibition, the audience part of the hall being already obscured, by some accident the light was entirely extinguished.

Pending the recovery, which occupied some little time, the city gentleman, [perhaps accidentally] gently pressed the hand of the bride, who was too much alarmed to offer resistance. This bold act was followed by a bolder, certainly not accidental, for the city Lothario absolutely kissed the bride. This was too much, and the young wife resolved to tell her husband, which she did, when the following whispering colloquy took place:

"John!" "What?"—"This fellow here's kissing me." "Well," said John who was a little shy of the citizen, "tell him to quit."—"No John, you tell him." "Tell him yourself."—"No, John, I don't like to; you tell him. The gentleman's a perfect stranger to me!"

A CURT WIDOW.—It is related that a man on his death bed called his wife to him and said:

"I leave my horse to my parents; sell him and hand the money you get over to them. But my dog I leave to you; dispose of him as you think best." The wife promised to obey. So, in due time after the death of her lord, she started out to find a market for her animal.

"How much do you ask for your horse?" inquired the farmer.

"I cannot sell the horse alone," she replied, "but I will sell the dog and horse at a fair price for both. Give me one hundred dollars for the dog and one dollar for the horse, and we can trade on those terms;" and the cute widow conscientiously paid to the parents the one dollar she received for the horse, and kept the one hundred dollars she received for the dog, with the most perfect complacency.

A DISTINGUISHED actress was lately introduced to a lawyer in -Porkshire, who was not at all backward in sounding his own praise. "He is a very smart man," an acquaintance remarked soon afterwards. "I know it," she replied; "he told me so himself."

A SCENE AT POMPEII.—Signor Fiorelli had frequently observed hollows in the hard volcanic matter, in which were found human bones or fragments of charred wood mixed with ivory and bronze ornaments. The happy idea occurred to him of pouring liquid plaster into these hollows—in fact using them as a sculptor would a mould. The result far exceeded his expectations. Among the first casts that he thus obtained were those of four human beings. They are now preserved in a room at Pompeii, and more ghastly and painful, yet deeply interesting and touching objects it is difficult to conceive. We have death itself moulded and cast—the very last struggle, the final agony brought before us. They tell their story with a horrible dramatic truth that no sculptor could even reach. They would have furnished a thrilling episode to the accomplished author of the "Last Days of Pompeii."

These four persons had perished in the street. They had remained within the shelter of their homes until the thick black mud began to creep through every cranny and chink. Driven from their retreat, they sought to flee when it was too late. The streets were already buried deep in the loose pumice stones, which had been falling for many hours in unrelenting showers, and which reached almost to the windows of the first floor. These victims of the eruption were not found together, and they do not appear to have belonged to the same family or household. The most interesting of the casts is that of the two women, probably mother and daughter, lying feet to feet. They appear from their garb to have been people of poor condition. The elder seems to be tranquilly on her side. Overcome by the noxious gases she probably fell and died without a struggle. Her limbs are extended, and her left arm drops loosely. On one finger is still seen her coarse iron ring. Her child was a girl of fifteen; she seems, poor thing, to have struggled hard for life. Her legs are drawn up convulsively. Her little hands are clinched in agony. In one hand she holds her veil, or a part of her dress, with which she had covered her head, burying her face in her arm to shield herself from the falling ashes and from the foul sulphurous smoke. The form of her head is perfectly preserved. The texture of her coarse linen garment may be traced, and even the fashion of her dress, with its long sleeves reaching to her wrists. Here and there it is torn, and the smooth young skin appears in the plaster like polished marble. On her tiny feet may still be seen her embroidered sandals. At some distance from this group lay a third woman. She appears to have been about twenty-five years of age, and to have belonged to a better class than the other two. On one of her fingers were two silver rings, and her garments were of a finer texture. Her linen headdress falling over her shoulders like that of a matron in a Roman statue, can still be distinguished. She had fallen on her side, overcome by the heat and gases; but a terrible struggle seems to have preceded her last agony. One arm is raised in despair; the hands are clenched convulsively. Her garments are gathered up on one side, leaving exposed a limb of beautiful shape. So perfect a mould of it has been formed by the soft and yielding mud, that the cast would seem to be taken from an exquisite work of Greek art. She had died with her little treasure, which lay scattered around her—two silver cups; a few jewels and some dozen silver coins. Nor had she, like a good housewife forgotten her keys, after having probably locked up her stores before seeking to escape. They were found by her side.

The fourth cast is that of a man of the people, perhaps a common soldier. He is of almost colossal size. He lies on his back, his arms extended by his side and his feet stretched out, as if, finding escape impossible, he had laid himself down to meet death like a brave man. His dress consists of a short coat or jerkin and tight fitting breeches, of some coarse stuff, perhaps leather. Heavy sandals, with soles studded with nails, are laced tightly round his ankles. On one finger is seen his iron ring. His features are strongly marked; the mouth open as in death. Some of the teeth still remain, and even part of the moustache adheres to the plaster.

The importance of Signor Fiorelli's discovery may be understood from the results we have described. It may furnish us with many curious particulars as to the dress and domestic habits of THE ROMANS, and with many an interesting episode of the last days of Pompeii. Had it been made at an earlier period, we might perhaps, have possessed the perfect cast of the family of Diomedes, as they clung together in their last struggle, and of other victims whose remains are now mingled together in the bonehouse.

"WE ARE AT WAR."—A few evenings ago a lady, "well to do in the world," meeting several of her friends in one of our city markets, heard them complaining of the high prices and was accosted by them with the remark that "she was happily situated in being able to pay such prices without feeling the outlay." Her answer struck us as exhibiting a vein of thought which is rare. She replied: "If you will examine my basket you will observe I buy nothing but what I actually need, and no larger quantity than is necessary. All my expenses are regulated upon the same principle. I cannot understand how people can expect or desire to live as luxuriously now or while the war lasts, as though we were at peace. We are at war. I believe it to be a righteous contest, and all the means that otherwise might be expended in luxury I must appropriate, so long as our soldiers suffer all they cheerfully bear, to their encouragement and assistance, and to aid the Government."—[Phila. paper.]

"DE FLANK MOVEMENT."—On Tuesday the grand scare was at its height. The beautiful 5th was taken advantage of by the farmers to make a pilgrimage down the valley to Harrisburg, their Mecca and Refuge. The cavalcade began to move on Monday evening, and dragged its slow length along for two days. Upward of 10,000 horses, exclusively of vehicles, passed through Chambersburg. The stamped of the contrabands was one of the most sad and yet ludicrous features of the whole affair. The poor negroes knew from whom they had to flee. I met an old colored man astride of an ancient horse struggling along at a most desperate rate below Chambersburg. His poor beast, nearly dropping with fatigue, he was urging on by administering blows with a rope's end. On my remonstrating with him for his uncalculated panic, telling him that the rebels were thirty miles in his rear, he replied—"Yes, sah! Yes, sah! I know dat; but I'm afraid ob de flank movement!" It would be very difficult to stop him short of Harrisburg.—[Cor. Chicago paper.]

A MANDARIN.—The Springfield, (Massachusetts) Republican states that Yung Wing, a young Chinese, who graduated some ten years since at Yale, has recently returned to this country with the rank of Mandarin, and a commission from the Imperial Government empowering him to inspect and purchase machinery of various kinds, with the view of introducing into China the modern improvements in science and arts made by the Western nations, and especially our own. The Mandarin is the guest of Dr. McLean of Springfield, and is spoken of in high terms as a man remarkably adapted to execute a commission so interesting and important, and which evidently marks an era in Chinese history.

TO PREVENT CUTTLE FROM JUMPING FENCES.—Simply clip the eyelashes of the upper lids with a scissors, and the ability or disposition to jump is as effectually destroyed as Sampson's power was by the loss of his locks. The animal will not attempt to jump a fence until the eyelashes are grown again. Of this we are informed by Samuel Thorne, the great breeder of Dutchess county, who assured us that he had tested it upon a pair of brachy oxen. As it was of great value to him, he hopes it will be tried by others.

OUR TELEGRAPH REPORTER.—We would like to know what our telegraph reporter, at San Francisco, was engaged at on Thursday evening? The Alta and Bulletin contained about two columns of late telegraphic news, and not a line was sent us. It is the impression about these parts that such an agent is a humbug, and that he better resign or attend to his business.—[Appeal.]

STILL THEY COME.—The rush this way from Virginia City is still on the increase, and every one that we have had any talk with say that employment cannot be had in the Territory, for they have tried in vain to get something to do and have failed to make the rifle.

MCLELLAN.

However much enthusiasm the nomination of McClellan may create elsewhere, it is a positive fact that four out of five of the copperheads of this county would find a dose of ipecac as palatable. No enthusiasm, none of that irritating which shows itself in eye and lip as satisfactory.

Although we have heard at least a dozen men who are of the Democratic political faith, say that they would vote for Lincoln before they would vote for Little Mac, yet for all that, although it is a bitter dose, he will doubtless poll the full strength of the vote of that faction.

It is an old motto of the Democrats, "nothing for men, but everything for principles," and in the present canvass they have arranged matters so adroitly, as to prove conclusively that Democracy in 1864, is of the white-blackbird variety; it is peace-war, a convenient creed for troublous times. As the showman told the boy who wanted to know which of a group of figures was the Duke of Wellington and which Napoleon, "you pay your money and takes your choice." We are certainly as much in the fog as ever concerning what to-day composes the unchanging principles of the Democratic party. We must come to the conclusion that its unchanging principles are the seven spoken of by John Randolph—"five loaves and two fishes."

In this county, ever since the war commenced, there have been about three hundred men who declared then, and declare to-day that they are in favor of peace upon any terms—that, (as the platform of McConnell expressed it,) they were in "favor of the recognition of the Southern Confederacy to avert the horrors of war," who have spent a large amount of breath in cursing war-democrats as Abolitionists more despicable in their eyes than the supporters of Mr.
Lincoln, who have, a number of them, confessed to us that they groveled in the dust at the "vigorous prosecution of the war" plank, adopted in County Convention two years since, but acknowledged that it was only placed there to catch a few poor weak-backed souls who must have a little sop to be caught, and our curiosity is intense now, to see how gracefully these earnest, honest peace men will swallow the "greatest General of this war," without greasing. Their recognized leader in this county declared in a speech last Saturday night, that in placing McClellan upon a peace platform, the war Democrats had adopted the principles of the peace Democracy.

The present attitude of the Copper-heads, is a practical exemplification of political miscegenation. The millennium is at hand; the lion and the lamb have laid down together. Can it be possible that men who have the reputation of being sensible and honest, can ever think of the depth of political degradation to which the endorsement of a candidate who declares that "the Union can only be restored and preserved by carrying on this war with all the power of the Government," upon a platform which calls for an "immediate stoppage of that war," and which calls the efforts made by the authorities for carrying on the war "shameful violations" of the fundamental law? Can there be a lower depth to which man can crawl, and yet face the light of day without blushing?

There are some men in the Democratic organization, who, we believe, are too honest to be caught by a hook so entirely bare. For one, we feel thankful that we shook the dust from our feet and left the party ere it had added treason to its folly.

Not a day passes but that we hear Lincoln cursed for arresting Weller or Vallandigham, by men who will ere election cheer for a man who arrested a whole State Legislature; who suspended the privilege of the writ of habeas corpus, and, as his defender at Chicago apologet-ically explained to the Convention, "he would have been a traitor to his country had he done otherwise," and yet, when Mr. Lincoln is excused on the same ground, these same men declare his acts unconstitutional.

Now, Democrats, we propose that when you next meet in your club, that you select some of your more prominent members, who have cursed this war from the start as an abolition war, who have declared the soldiers to be "Lincoln's hirelings," to propose three rousing cheers for the "Greatest General of the War," one of the hirelings of Lincoln, and who, as Long said, "helped to carry out the shameful and abominable provisions of the emancipation act."

Altogether, now, peace men! Three cheers for your honest Peace candidate.

SPIOY CORRESPONDENCE.

The following letter was received by one of the officials of Lassen county, a short time since:

Aug. 15th, '64.

Is there any "show" near you, for a lawyer and law-clerk who is familiar and offhand with any kind of work belonging to the law, but who does not pretend to be either an incipient Congressman or one of those "brilliant" men, who wander off towards new counties?

I can do all kinds of "office work," in any kind of an office. I can write papers that will stand the test of demur-ers. I want to find a place where, occasionally some citizen has a little money. Clerks and Sheriffs generally like to have me around them. I believe all this, because for some little time past, say about twenty-two years—I have experienced it.

I left poor Godforsaken Yolo county, because in the last seven years we have had five dry seasons. The people were impoverished, so that all of us who had the means left the county. (I had no "means," but I left, anyhow.)

My politics are not good. I am a Democrat, and very proud of the fact. I am, however, liberal in my politics. I would, without much hesitation, take a case for even an abolitionist, if everything appeared to be right—that is, if I had a good case, was full of money, and would pay me my fee down in advance. I am no hog. I consider that an abolitionist has a right to his opinion, and is as good as any other man (of the same sort), and I would trust him as far as I would any other abolitionist. Some people have an idea that an abolitionist is not as good as a common thief; but I was "raised" in the liberal part of Missouri, and was always taught to consider an abolitionist fully as good as any thief.

I am now rusticated in the mountains of the eastern part of El Dorado county, where I make my living, (a very meager one at that,) by making fences, and trying to learn to cut hay. I would much rather resume my pen, or my law-books in some good quiet county, where there are no dry seasons as in Yolo, and no "feet" as in this mountain region. I prefer an agricultural county, where the "living" is slow, sure and respectable.

If you think "grub" can be made (by a willing and a hungry soul) just say so and I'll break for your county. See my enclosed address.

Yours, resp'y,

P. S.—A Yolo acquaintance of yours told me to write to you, but forgot to tell me your name, so I address you officially. By the way, there are some old residents of Yolo county living at your county seat, who can tell you all about me.

The following is a copy of the answer returned:

SUSANVILLE, Aug. 27, '64.

Mr. —Sir: In answer to your inquiries as to the "show" for a lawyer or lawyer's clerk in our county, my regard for truth compels me to say that your chances "for a hungry soul to make grub" would be rather slim. In the first place we are overstocked with lawyers. There are seven as fine, talented, thorough-bred lawyers here already, as ever electrified a Court with specimens of prunic eloquence. Two first-rate copperhead lawyers have been here since the first of June, and, as yet, have had "nary a client," and I am informed that they have concluded to take the oath and go to chopping cord-wood like honest Democrats. There is no business in either of the Courts, and not likely to be.
In addition to the "dry seasons," that you speak of in Yolo county, we have had here, this season, a nipping frost at least once a week, and the farmers will not realize from their crops as large an amount of grain as they put in the ground last Spring. What makes matters still worse, the hotel and whisky shop keepers absolutely refuse to do a credit business; and I fear that if you should come up here you would experience dryer times than ever you did in Yolo.

As to office work, there is not an office in this county that will pay "grub," except that of District Attorney, who receives a salary of four hundred dollars per year, payable in County Scrip. (You could sell the Scrip for forty cents on the dollar, payable in greenbacks.) Being himself an "abolitionist," he might on proper representation from a "Democrat, from the liberal part of Missouri," be induced to resign in your favor. You being a Democratic would add immen-sely to your popularity here, as the Democratic ticket, at the last election, polled nearly one-fourth as many votes as the Republicans. As to your living respectable that is out of the question here, for our society is composed exclusively of "abolitionists," which, as a matter of course, "left out" the respectability.

For your further information, I would state that there are two companies of Nevada volunteers stationed, at present, in this valley, who keep a pretty sharp look-out for Missouri guerrillas, and gentlemen of "secessh proclivities," and who require every one traveling through here, or coming here to reside, to subscribe to the following oath:—

"I do solemnly swear, that I will support the Constitution of the United States, and the Constitution of the State of California, and that I will bear true faith and allegiance to the Government of the United States, as administered by Uncle Abe,—that I have not since the commencement of the present war, hoped or prayed for the success of the rebel arms, nor will I ever do so hereafter,— that I have never, either when duly sober, or under the influence of rot-gut, "hollered," go in my Jeff, nor will I ever do so hereafter,—that I believe Old Abe to be an able statesman, and a pure minded patriot, and that I will use all constitutional or unconstitutional means to insure his re-election,—and further that I believe a Northern "abolition thief" to be as good as any Southern nigger driver; and all this freely and voluntarily, and without any fear or undue influence from my wife, or any other man,—So help me God!"

All Attorneys, or other persons transacting any business in either of the Courts in this county, are also required to subscribe to the foregoing oath.

If you can make a living where you are, by building fence, cutting hay, or by any other means, my advice to you is not to change your base.

If you wish to realize a fortune in a legitimate way, quickly and surely, get a ranch and go to raising hemp; for the signs of the times indicate that the article will very soon be in great demand.

If all your resources fail, there is a gentleman by the name of Davis, who is wanting men of your stripe very badly.
I could not vouch for the timing, or the pay, or the respectability of the company you would be in, and am at present unable to give you his address, but if you will make the necessary inquiries, you will probably be able to find him somewhere south of Mason's & Dixon's Line.

Respectfully, &c.,

PLATFORM OF THE UNION PARTY OF CALIFORNIA.

The following is the Platform adopted by the Union Party of California, in State Convention, August 31, 1864.

Resolved, That this Convention, representing the opinions and wishes of the Union party of California, is fully conscious of the immensity of the struggle, and of its consequences, in which this nation and the Government representing it are now engaged. We accept the contest, with its crosses and its triumphs, as the condition upon which treason has made our National existence to depend. This contest, by action now deemed humiliating, we have long avoided; but when, at last, left no choice—attacked—peace and civilization, nation and home at once assailed—we have turned upon our enemies, resolved that this land shall hereafter be true to its professions of attachment to law, to justice and freedom.

Resolved, That we firmly adhere to the platform and declarations of the National Union Convention recently held in Baltimore.

Resolved, That we heartily and unreservedly approve the nominations of Abraham Lincoln and Andrew Johnson for President and Vice President of the United States, and we pledge to them that support which we tendered to them at our last Union State Convention.

Resolved, That in nominations of candidates for Presidential Electors, it is upon the express condition that the votes of said Electors be cast for the above named nominees of the National Convention.

Resolved, That John Conness, in the support he has given to the present Administration as Senator from California, is heartily indorsed and approved, and the loyal people of this State will hail with lively satisfaction his further co-operation with the Administration in its efforts to restore peace to the country by the destruction of the armed power of the States now in revolt against the Government.

COPPERHEAD NOMINATIONS.—The Democratic State Convention met at San Francisco on the 8th inst., and endorsed McClellan and the Chicago platform, and nominated as Electors, H. P. Barber, of Tuolumne; John T. Dayle, of San Francisco; Judge White, E. S. Lewis, of Tehama, and Jos. Hamilton. The nominees for Congress were John G. Downey, of Los Angeles; J. W. Coffroth, of Sacramento, and Jackson Temple, of Sonoma.

The County Court met last Monday, and adjourned to the 12th inst.

LASSEN COUNTY ITEMS.

John Tuskey, while under the influence of whisky, walked off the balcony of the Brannon House, in Susanville, on the night of August 31st, and received injuries from the effect of which he died September 2d. Tuskey was a stranger in Susanville, having arrived in that place a few days previous to his death, from Washoe. He had been drunk all the time he was there; was a bitter secessionist, and had made himself particularly conspicuous by his abuse of Union men, and had expressed a wish to see civil war in this State, so that he could "wipe out" a few abolitionists.

The military company, at Susanville, has recently received word from the Adjutant General, that it will be accepted as a cavalry company, on account of one of the companies in the lower portion of the State, failing to complete its organization. They will receive their carbines, pistols, &c., immediately; and will also receive $2000 in gold coin for the purpose of purchasing uniforms necessary for the company. The company numbers over 70 men.

The U. S. cavalry company, which has been stationed in the valley during the past season, has been removed to Ft.
Churchill.

The citizens of Surprise Valley have petitioned the General, commanding the forces on this Coast to have a cavalry company stationed in that valley.

A large number of emigrants are passing through Honey Lake Valley every day. But few of them are locating in that section.

County Court and the Grand Jury have been in session during the past week.

The Board of Supervisors of Lassen county have ordered the Assessor to assess all of the grain and hay crops of this years growth. If the order is carried out it will add a large sum to the revenue of the county. But the farmers and ranchers do not appear to be very well pleased with their part of the arrangement, viz., the paying portion.

Work upon the New Jail has been commenced. No other county buildings will be commenced this season.

NEEDS CONFIRMATION.—It is currently reported that a large number of men are collecting together, at or near the Mountain Meadows, in Lassen county, and all of them belong to that party, known as Peace (?) Democrats. What their object is, or what they intend doing is, as yet, a mystery to any one but themselves.
If the report is correct, (and we have heard it from several sources,) they are, no doubt, organizing a guerrilla band.
They need watching!

OFFICERED.—The steamer "Confederate Democracy," a rotten old tub, which has been sloshing about in the "dirty pool of politics," for some time past, has succeeded at last in getting a crew.
(And such a crew!) Tuolumne Barber officials as Captain, Dayle, White and Lewis are the "roustabouts," with "K.
N." Coffroth as Cabin Boy, Temple as Deck-Hand, and Downey, Helmsman.
The above named steamer will leave for Salt River, on the 7th of November next.

TERIBLE ACCIDENT.—SACRAMENTO, Sept. 6.
—The most terrible steam explosion that ever occurred in the State, is reported to have taken place on the opposition steamer Washoe, on her trip up last night. The explosion is said to have occurred at the head of Steamboat Slough, which is about forty miles below Sacramento. One of the Washoe's boilers collapsed a few, and the boiler is said to have made a clean sweep aft, going overboard through the stern of the boat.
One hundred and fifty passengers were on board the Washoe, a large number being females, and only about ten of the latter were saved. Kidd and the most of his officials are unharned. The Washoe sunk near the shore a complete wreck.
—[Appeal.]

ATLANTA HAS FALLEN.—The telegraph, on Saturday, brought the joyful intelligence that Sherman is in possession of Atlanta. The event took place on the second of September. On that day the Twelfth Corps of Sherman's grand army entered and took possession of the city.
According to report a terrible battle took place near East Point, six miles below Atlanta, in which the rebels met with heavy loss. It is said the rebel General Hardee (the author of Hardee's Tactics) was killed, and the rebel army cut in two.
The possession of Atlanta by our troops is of more advantage to us than would be that of Petersburg or Richmond without Atlanta. It is virtually the possession of Georgia, Richmond and Petersburg; for all these in the course of time must fall.—[Gazette.]

The Clerks and other employees of the War department have been organized into a regiment.—[Plainedealer.]

To charge on the Treasury Department, we spouse.—[Pioneer.]

There's no danger, if they don't undertake to execute a "hank movement."

An editor says sugar has gone up so high as to produce a slight increase in the price of sand.—[Ex.]

Sand has gone up too. For particulars, ask any of the "sand-packers," at Fort Churchill.

POLITICAL SPEAKING.—Hon. John Bidwell, of Chico, and Judge J. O. Goodwin, of Marysville, have signified their intention of addressing the citizens of this place, during the present campaign.
The probability is that they will be here during the week of the Fair. We hope so.

THE GUERRILLA MORGAN.—The news of the capture and death of John Morgan, the guerrilla Chief will be read with profound regret by the Copperheads.— This land rover has come to his end, and gone where they keep excellent fires.
His arrival was greeted by his Satanic Majesty with great glee.—[Appeal.]

WELL SAID.—A few days since, we overheard one of our straight out peace men remark, that McClellan was a d-d "bilk," and the Democratic party would soon find it out.

The Union men found it out long ago.

LORD BACON says that we should square our lives, but life is a circle, and the circle can't be squared.—[Ex.]

How about the circle arrangement Lovejoy?

ENDORSED.—The National and State Democratic Convention, have endorsed Little Mc. How will the members of that party feel if Little Mc. refuses to endorse them?

ENTERPRISING.—The Mining & Scientific Press Company is issuing a Daily edition of the Press, during the holding of the Mechanics' Institute Fair, at San Francisco.

NEVADA ELECTION.—The election in Nevada Territory come off, on the 7th inst. The majority for the State Constitution is very large.

SIGNIFICANT.—During the session of the Copperhead Convention in Yuba Co., the flag was lowered to half mast, with the Union down.

"HURRAH for McClellan and Pendleton."
Ex.—

Why dont you hurrah for disunion and damnation? It means the same.

CORRESPONDENTS.—"Chip" of Argentine, "Sank," of Saw Pit Flat, and "S." of Nelson Point, letters received and contents noted. Come again.

QUERY ?—Why not secure the services of the Brass Band during the Fair week?
—better do it?

Go to Townsends and get your "picture" taken.

CHICO ROAD.—The following is from the Oroville Union:
A heavy gang of men is employed on the Chico and Humboldt wagon road. Most of the work is now confined to the space intervening between Indian Valley and Susanville, Honey Lake.

BITTEN BY A HOG.—On Wednesday last, one of Indian George's children, a little fellow about five years old, was badly bitten by a hog. The child was playing in a field near town, when the hog attacked it, and inflicted two severe wounds, one on its head, and one on its side. Dr. Vaughan was sent for, and the wounds were properly dressed. The cut on the side was so large that the Dr. was compelled to put in two stitches to hold the flesh together.

Fork lines, more beautiful than these, says the Buffalo Express, are rarely written. The figure involved is exquisite:

A solemn murmur in the soul Tells of the world to be,
As travelers hear the billows roll Before they reach the sea.

When we see a seafaring foreigner, says the Gazette, we can't help imagining that such an individual is so used to monarchical oppression that he can't appreciate republican government, and therefore goes for slavery and Jeff. Davis.

"The only way for a woman to secure peace and comfort in her household is to have as few other women around as possible." By adding—and as few other men as possible, you will have a perfect economy.

PURE OLD BOURBON WHISKY.
WM. T. CUTTER'S
Pure Old Bourbon Whiskey.
FOR MEDICAL AND FAMILY PURPOSES.

SO LONG USED
IN THE ARMY HOSPITALS AND INFIRMARIES, and so favorably known throughout the Atlantic States, is now offered for sale in this market. The following testimonials from physicians of the highest distinction have been received, which are but very few of like character, which have come to us unsolicited:

New York, May 1, 1861.
Mr. Wm. T. Cutter, Jr., Louisville, Ky.—Dear Sir: The great difficulty in procuring brandy sufficiently pure for medicinal purposes, has induced many of the physicians of this vicinity to adopt Bourbon Whisky as a substitute, both in hospital and private practice, and since the latter has come into such general use, we have reason to believe that a great deal now sold is of very inferior quality.
Presuming that your residence in the vicinity of the manufacture of Whisky in Kentucky, as well as your skill as a chemist, will enable you to select a fine article, and having full confidence in your integrity, we are led to inquire whether you will not aid us in having the market supplied, through an agency, with the best quality of
For the use of the sick.

We are, very respectfully, sir, yours truly, Valentine Mott, M. D., Willard Parker, M. D., J. C. Hutchinson, M. D., Austin Flint, M. D., C. L. Mitchell, M. D., F. H. Hamilton, M. D., Dewitt C. Enos, M. D., R. O. Doremus, M. D., E. N. Chapman, M. D., Prof. of Chemistry, Jas. B. Wood, M. D., W. E. P. Baylis.

The above article is for sale by WM. T. CUTTER,
